The Tim Harder Memorial Fund has been established to enable people to attend Rushing Wind Retreat Center, a fly-in fishing camp that Tim has been attending since 2010.

While Tim loved fishing and this was a big draw, the camp had impacted him much deeper on a heart level. It was a place of rest where he experienced God's presence in the midst of nature, a place full of laughter, comradery and belonging; a place where everyone felt part of the family. Many times Tim would share his heart during the testimony times with tears streaming down his face... he shared about how God had changed his life, empowered him, freed him from his addictions and how He had touched, healed and provided for him and others.

In recent years Tim shared his desire and plans to enable others to come to Rushing Wind, especially those who could not afford it themselves. He wanted them to experience what he had, and ultimately to experience God! He desired this so much that he often personally paid the way for others to attend.

Norwex is a line of microfiber products that can remove 99% of bacteria using just water (when following proper care and instructions). They are infused with silver that inhibits the growth of bacteria, mould, and mildew. That means, no more stinky cloths! What makes Norwex's microfiber different than others is their density and design, which enables them to lift and collect particles as opposed to traditional cloths that push particles around.
